Kikionga Junior High School,
Tomahawk

The background features a large, dark gray triangular shape on the left side, resembling a tent or a stylized mountain. Inside this shape are a white five-pointed star, a crescent moon, and a small white dot. To the right of this shape are two horizontal bands of a repeating zigzag pattern. Below these bands are two horizontal bands of a repeating wavy pattern with small black dots. At the bottom, a black horizontal band contains the text '64 Tomahawk' in a white, stylized font.

Kekionga Life Is Varied--

The Student Affairs Council, under the direction of Doug Baugh, provides a sounding board for study body wishes and administration policies and encourages student participation in worthwhile projects. A school handbook has been one of the major tasks this year. Top row, from left, the council consists of Beth Stewart, Dorothy Lohr, Steve Mansbach, Lance Feighner, Paul Nelson, Steve Spitler, Ann Hoard, Cheryl Kitchen, Kevin Osbun, Kenny Cornacchione, Maureen Lehman, and Barb Berggoetz. Middle row: Debby Clark, Jenny Antcliff, Will Hausman, Alan Hofer, Steve Duncan, Fred Strauss, Bill Turnley, John Zavitz, Mary Beth Marr, Ann Turnley, and Bruce Guebard. Seated are Jerry Guebard, Margaret Mitchell, Christine Havens, Chuck Nelson, Shelley Long, Paula Jones, Linda Goodman, and Diane Bumgardner.

Our boys practice to win games and the tourney

Hugh Rice, principal, formulates school policies and directs school activities from his desk. Students and faculty appreciate his warm, friendly manner.

From his office in which many students have found understanding counsel. Doug Baugh, staff assistant, master-minds ingenious techniques for carrying out a multitude of school jobs—from textbook dispersal to lunch-hour recreation.

Mrs. Goldman and Mrs. Hursh put in busy days as office secretaries doing a thousand-and-one helpful jobs for students, teachers, and administrators.

Dignified teachers find a relaxing lunch hour essential in the course of a school day.

ACADE

Kekionga braves and maidens are studious. In each classroom we learn to think, act, and do.

The library opens the world of adventure, mystery, romance, and knowledge to Kekiongans of all grade levels.

In home economics Mrs. Stech teaches the girls sewing, cooking, and many other domestic arts.

Study Habits Improve With Time and Space

Ninth graders spend time in study hall in order to get tomorrow's studies completed.

Art students learn fundamentals and history of art; they apply this knowledge in their own creative works.

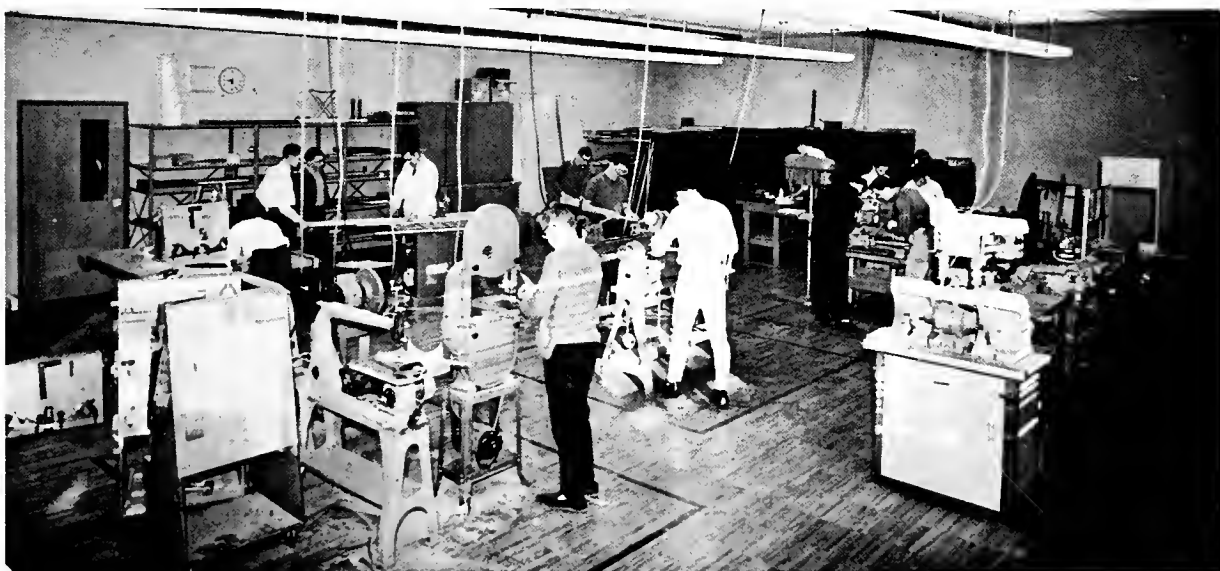

In home arts, seventh graders discover how to do odd jobs around the house.

Study Includes Art-- Practical and Aesthetic

Golden
 So a nice girl that I used to sit in front of in school
 sets her back up me
Golden

Eighth and ninth grade boys learn to use hand tools and machines for building useful projects in shop.

Ninth graders learn noun clauses as the English teacher looks on.

Students Thrive on Variety of Classes

In physical education classes girls jump high for the ball as the teacher referees.

SUMMER LOVE HOLLY TRIE

Boys in all grades learn exercises that will make them fit during their physical education classes. Group sports teach teamwork.

Kekionga's youth are active, curious, and vigorous. A varied selection of activities keeps them happy.

Tomahawk Comes to Life

John Zavitz and Ann Bonner serve as co-editors.

The Tomahawk is designed as a pictorial record of student life in our junior high school during the year 1963-1964. It had its beginnings last spring when selected students received instruction at a city-wide yearbook workshop. Throughout the school year the staff has been planning, working, and meeting deadlines so that the best Tomahawk yet published can be presented to the student body.

... in the administrative office.

... in the audio-visual department.

Students Serve in Many Areas

Many ninth grade students serve their school with time, effort, abilities, and talents in return for the experience, knowledge, and education which these service opportunities offer. They serve . . .

... in the school library.

... as teacher aides.

... as study hall helpers.

Any student at Kekionga may be a member of the Speech Club. By presenting different types of speeches, the student is given the opportunity of becoming aware of some of the "musts" of speech-making.

Dramatics Attracts Kekiongans

Forensic Club is open to ninth grade orators only. The club provides members with opportunities to enter high school speech contests. Stan Dietzel, Barbara Smith, Shelley Long, Chuck Nelson, and Janis Weintraub learn "how-to" from Mrs. Layman.

Orelist members work for the improvement of reading, library, and study skills. The improvement results through the dramatization of stories, poems, radio plays, and discussions of favorite stories.

Applied Science Club has attempted to expose its members to the many applications of math and science. Occasional speakers discuss specific fields and make demonstrations. The objectives are increased interest and a Science Fair project.

Students Pursue Sciences

Weather permitting, the Recreation Club's activities are centered out of doors, but for winter weeks the program takes place in the gymnasium. The main objective of the club is not to develop skill, but the emphasis is placed on enjoying the game.

In Living Hobbies Club we learn to appreciate the important values of plants and the proper care of animals.

All things Roman—gods, houses, food, clothing, sports, plays, and even Latin Bingo—occupy the thirteen members of the Latin Club that meets in 103 on Mondays.

Que tal! We meet, we talk, and we understand—in Spanish. We know our Latin American friends are not different from us; they only speak a different language. We never say good-by, just—Hasta la vista!

Languages, Newswriting Attract Freshmen

The Arrowhead staff takes time off from writing news stories to pose for their picture. The masthead of the paper reads: Dave Gooden, editor-in-chief; Donna Flickinger, associate editor; Susan Chapman, news editor; Shelley Long, feature editor; Christine Havens, assistant feature editor; Tom Fleming, sports editor; Dan Walden, assistant; Greg Bender, photography; Jim Lobert and Bruce Fisher, assistant photographers; David Gregg and Jack Shyrock, sports writers; Greg Bender, Donna Flickinger, Debbie Toor, news writers; Jim Lobert, Bruce Fisher, Greg Bender, Susan Chapman, Sue Dettmer, Lynne Smith, Diane Dettmer, Ann Turnley, Sheri Teeters, and Barbara Berggoetz, feature writers; Mrs. Robert Layman, sponsor.

Typing Club helps students achieve enough proficiency in typing so that they can type some of their homework.

Activities Vary at Kekionga

Vesta Club is named for the Roman goddess of the hearth and household duties. Girls find interest in special projects and phases of homemaking outside regular class work.

Realizing that today we live in an interdependent world, Foreign Affairs Club explores topics related to foreign countries and to the United States.

Students in Bowling Club participate in friendly competition each week as they become more proficient in this popular sport.

Many Students Participate

Y-Teens is a service organization open to girls only. Sponsored by the YWCA, each girl becomes a member of the "Y" when she joins this club.

The Kekionga Girls' Ensemble is a select singing group with members chosen by tryout only. The Ensemble sings two- and three-part music of various types.

Activities Fill Needs, Interests

Choir is composed of a large group of students who sing together every other day during school time. On several occasions during the year, the choir is presented in concert to the public.

The Seventh Grade band gives a musical experience to seventh graders and provides trained musicians to fill vacancies in the more advanced groups during the years to come.

Students Choose Music Bands, Orchestra

A performing group, the Concert Band, meets during school time for practice every other day.

A string group, the Orchestra, meets as a seventh period activity. Orchestra selections provide variety in public concerts.

The Varsity Band consists mostly of eighth and ninth grade students who rehearse during school hours.

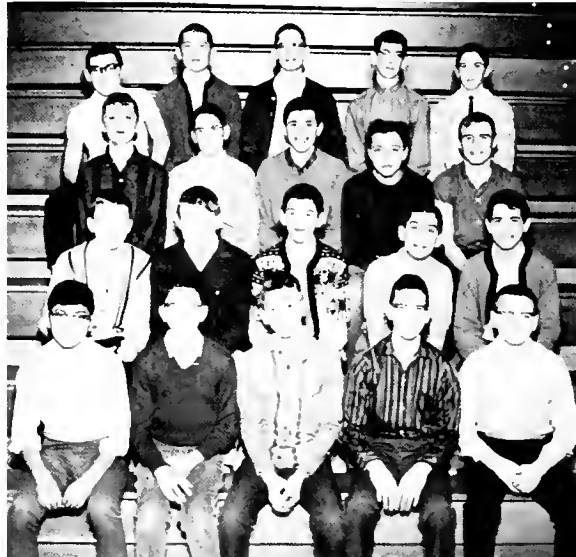

Dance Band is an activity offered for those students interested in and able to play modern and popular music. The Dance Band sometimes performs for school record hops.

Intramurals . . . for Boys . . . and Girls

The Intramural program is based on the fact that its members enjoy many different individual and team sports and that they want to spend more than just class time on these activities. Throughout the year the students spend many extra hours participating in softball, soccer, basketball, volleyball, tumbling, track, and field events.

ATHLETICS

Kekiongans are physically fit. Strong, lithe bodies compete in various sporting events.

Varsity football players look back upon a fine season, and forward to new thrills in high school athletics next year. The bottom row includes Lonny Fry, Steve Yentes, Randy Collins, Kenneth Hoemig, Bob Richards, Tom McCampbell, and Fred Orr. Dave Bellis, Tom Griffin, Gary Mote, Steve Rogers, Steve Quance, Kevin Walker and Stan Dietzel make up the second row. Third row: Coach Hoffman, Fred Strauss, Chuck Nelson, Rick Sowers, Dan Walden, Tom Fleming, Gary Kemp, Mark Merchant, Coach Grantham. Top row: Bill Peters, Dave Hall, Paul Grotrian, Neil Reher, Arthur Messenger, Jim Cooney.

Football, Cross Country Are Favorite Fall Sports

Under the coaching of Mr. Wichern, the Kekionga cross-country team ran a creditable season. These ninth-grade boys beat the Lakeside team three times and the Portage boys once. They lost to Northwood, Village Woods and Franklin. In the bottom row, from left, are Dale Bender, Jake Davis, Mike Orr, Ron Blaettner, Coach Wichern. Top row includes John Zavitz, Harry Ausderan, Tom Stone, Walter Jaworsky, and John Capin.

The varsity Warriors compiled a record of seven wins and five losses during their campaign. After playing inconsistently throughout the season the team defeated a rugged Portage team, but was eliminated from tournament play by Fairfield during an exciting game in the North Side gymnasium. Players are, first row, from left, Tom Rayl, Bill Peters, Chuck Kampschmidt, Steve Rodgers, Bob Richards, Fred Orr, Tom McCampbell. Second row, Coach Hoffman, Steve Quance, Tom Fleming, Kevin Walker, Neil Rehner, Mark Merchant, Tom Griffin, and Steve Yentes. Third row, Rick Sowers, Chuck Nelson, Tony Cornacchione, Steve Smith, Dan Walden, and Fred Strauss.

North Tourney Game Climaxes Basketball Year

The seventh and eighth grade basketball team finished the season with a hard-earned record of nine wins and three losses. These boys played fine ball during the regular season and tournament play. They opened tourney play with a victory over Ben Geyer, but lost to a tough Franklin team in semi-final action. Kneeling, from left, are Kenny Cornacchione, Greg Zeysing, Charles Crooks, Scott Loughheed, Chris Pavlik, Dan Leininger. Second row, Coach Schoeff, Bill Turnley, David Feedback, Paul Nelson, Greg Miller, Kenny Groves, and John Hoover. Third row, Gary Hale, Gary Zion, Joe Overmeyer, Ron Schimoller, Kirk Gemple, Larry DeArmond, and Gary Graham.

A basketball team of ninth grade girls chosen from intramural ranks played two games during the season, winning their game with Harrison Hill and losing to Franklin. In the spring a team was chosen to compete with other schools in volleyball.

Track Season Holds Promise; Girls Play, Too

Following the basketball season, these boys reported for track practice. As the season progressed and training grew more strenuous, the size of the group decreased.

Barbara Parkison and Gloria Smith strike poses as Kekionga's varsity cheerleaders. Cheerleaders were directed by Miss Seibert. In the back row are Claudia Bolyard, Christine Havens and Shelley Long. Hours of practice paid off in clever routines which directed the enthusiasm of K-e-k-i-o-n-g-a!

Go! Warriors! Go! Win! Warriors! Win!

The newly-organized Booster Club boasts a large, enthusiastic membership under the leadership of the cheerleaders. Yells and songs add spirit to exciting athletic contests.

The second morale-boosting, cheerleading group included Ann Hoard and Ann Spear, front row. Joining the yells are Susan Somers, Susan Burton and Bonnie Meyers. These girls cheered the seventh and eighth grade boys on to V-i-c-t-o-r-y!

Cooks, Custodians Important Too

The cooks who prepare and serve one delicious lunch after another are pictured in their shining kitchen. Evelyn Dennis, cafeteria manager, is at far left. Others are Betty Harding, Dorothy Gigli, Dorellen Grodrian, Eleanor Gray, Pauline Gillette, and Jeanette Fuhrman.

These five get our vote as custodians who do their job well—Jack Bennett, Walter Kline, Russell Heffner, Hollie Dennis, and Lois Steup, from left.
